Client's Rights:

You are entitled to receive information from your therapist about the methods of therapy, the techniques used, the duration of therapy (if known), and the fees. Please ask if you would like to receive this information. You can seek a second opinion regarding your treatment from another therapist or terminate therapy at any time.

Generally speaking, the information provided by and to the client during therapy sessions is legally confidential and cannot be released without the client's consent. There are exceptions to this confidentiality, some of which are listed in section 12-43-218 of the Colorado Revised Statutes and in the Notice of Privacy Rights that you were provided, as well as other exceptions in Colorado and Federal law. For example, mental health professionals are required to report child abuse and the intent to commit serious harm to self or others to the appropriate authorities. If a legal exception arises during therapy, if feasible, you will be informed accordingly.

Only a psychiatrist or other physician may provide you with medication. Psychologists and other psychotherapists may recommend a physician, if indicated.

Please be advised that in a professional relationship sexual intimacy is never appropriate and should be reported to the board that licenses, registers, or certifies the licensee, registrant, or certificate holder.
